Tim Black receives Colorado Roofing Association Lifetime Achievement Award.

The Colorado Roofing Association (CRA) honored Tim Black at their 8th Annual Awards Banquet on February 12th with their esteemed Lifetime Achievement Award.

Tim Black says he has only one talent . . .perseverance. But his colleagues know that his talents runs far deeper that that!

Tim Black is president and founder of Black Roofing, Inc. in Boulder, Colorado and has over 35 years of experience in roofing. He established the company in 1975 and Black Roofing has since grown to become one of the largest roofing firms in Colorado. Black Roofing, Inc. provides complete roofing and sheet metal services to the commercial, industrial, and residential industries and is capable of designing and installing any conventional roof system covering the entire Front Range community from Ft. Collins to Colorado Springs. With over 90 employees and averaging nearly 2000 jobs a year, Black Roofing is now one of the oldest and well-respected companies in Colorado.

Tim is a native of Boulder and graduate of the University of Colorado. He was destined to be in the roofing industry with both his brother and father in the construction industry. Working for both of them and fellow CRA member Arapahoe Roofing before starting his own company. He says his business has been interesting, challenging and rewarding.

In addition to building a successful roofing business, Tim is dedicated to the industry on both a local and national level. Tim was one of the founding members of the Colorado Roofing Association. He is currently a member of the Awards Dinner Committee and continues to actively support the association with integrity and passion for the industry.

At the national level Tim is currently serving on the Board of Directors for the National Roofing Contractors Association and is a member of their Architectural Sheet Metal Task Force and Government Relations Committee.

Tim has also served as a Board Director of the YMCA of Boulder and is very active in the Battered Women's Shelter.

Tim likes to get away and loves to travel. He is an avid hiker and likes to mountain climb. More importantly, he has been a mentor to many of his friends and associates in the industry and is always there to take a phone call on a colleagues' technical question or to offer some good advice.

Tim has earned this honor through his hard work and dedication to the roofing industry. It is with great pride and respect that we congratulate Tim Black on being the recipient of the 2008 CRA Lifetime Achievement Award.

CRA's Lifetime Achievement Award was established in 2000 to honor outstanding individuals who have contributed to the success, development and continuation of Colorado's roofing industry. For more information on the Colorado Roofing Association please visit www.coloradoroofing.org.
