FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Colorado Roofing Association Repairs Animal Rescue Shelter's Roof!

The Colorado Roofing Association comes to the aid of a local non-profit animal shelter in need of a new roof.

In early August 9News aired a story about the Animal Rescue and Adoption Society, located in Denver, who had been victimized twice within the last few months. First, with graffiti on its walls and second by a local non-member roofing contractor who stopped showing up after completing only half the work. The roof was covered by a tarp and the shelter was dealing with leaks every time it rained.

Immediately upon hearing of the Animal Rescue and Adoption Society's need, the Colorado Roofing Association went to work getting volunteers and the materials donated. The roof is now complete and the shelter is DRY! 9News did a follow-up story on Monday, August 14 during their 10pm broadcast thanking the Colorado Roofing Association for coming to the aide of the shelter.
